

Press release

Senden, 19.05.2020

Due to the CORONA pandemic, the contact data of guests or customers have to be recorded in many countries. In order to make registration quick, easy and paperless, we help all restaurateurs and shop owners with our service coronatimeclock.org

The restaurant/shopkeeper creates a QR code on coronatimeclock.org, which is posted on his premises. Customers scan this code during their visit, which opens a page on coronatimeclock.org. There a form appears which asks for name and number of persons. The date and time are recorded automatically and do not need to be entered separately. The actual registration then takes place by e-mail, WhatsApp or SMS directly to the shop owner.

CORONAtimeclock.org does not save the shop owner's data when creating the QR code. The guests themselves transmit their data directly to the respective shop owner, who keeps them for four weeks and then has to delete them. Only on justified request from the health authority they will be released. Data protection is therefore guaranteed.

CORONAtimeclock.org is offered in the languages German, English, French, Spanish and Italian. Special thanks go to the sponsors, who are also mentioned by name on the site. They make it possible that the service can be offered free of charge for everyone.
